About Jacob

There's a saying in aviation: "Just fly the plane." It means that no matter what's happening around you, stay calm and keep moving forward—a mindset that has shaped my entire journey.

I began flight training in 2015 and earned my private pilot license in just four months. Soon after, I attended Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University in Daytona Beach, where I earned my B.S. in Aeronautics with minors in Business Administration, Aeronautical Studies, and Applied Meteorology. My time there taught me perseverance, resilience, and the value of staying focused through challenges.

After graduating in 2019 and returning to New Jersey, the COVID-19 pandemic shifted everything. During this time, I had the opportunity to support Whitman Business Advisors, gaining my first experience in data entry and talent acquisition. Once the world reopened, I joined Signature Aviation as a Line Service Technician, working in all conditions while delivering exceptional service and building strong relationships with crew members, passengers, and peers.

Now, I'm entering a new chapter with Whitman Transition Advisors. With more time to focus on personal and professional growth, I'm excited to deepen my skills in talent acquisition, expand my network, and contribute to a great team. No matter where the journey takes me, I'll continue to "fly the plane."
